

About this resource

Modelling how to analyse text and then breaking it down makes it easier for learners to complete a written task. As they become more familiar with using a framework like this they need less input and can then apply it to other texts or in other subjects.

For more guidance on modelling contact our education team for information on training offered by the DYT.

Setting

October arrived, spreading a damp chill over the grounds and into the castle. Madam Pomfrey, the nurse, was kept busy by a sudden spate of colds among the staff and students.
