

Discussion game: Hierarchy of dilemmas

Influence a child's home-learning beyond the work set by their teacher! Discussion games can have a hugely positive impact on a learner's vocabulary and communication skills.

This activity sheet aims to provide you with a series of subjects and reflection points to provoke a fun and lively discussion.

Of the dilemmas:

- How would you order them from least to most 'harmful'?
- Are some equally bad or good?
- Can you ever justify a bad decision?
- Do you both/all agree on the order?
- Would your opinions change if you were discussing the dilemmas with anyone else?

Share your home-learning!

Use the hashtag
#DYThomelearning to share your child's work.

driver youth trust

for literacy

Of the dilemmas:

- How would you order them from least to most 'harmful'?
- Are some equally bad or good?
- Can you ever justify a bad decision?
- Do you both/all agree on the order?
- Would your opinions change if you were discussing the dilemmas with anyone else?

Stealing food to feed your family

Murdering an evil person

Pushing someone you don't like off a cliff, but then calling an ambulance

Pushing an old man out of a lifeboat to make space for a mother and child

Lying under-oath in court

Cutting overseas aid to help elderly people

Stealing £10,000 to pay for lifesaving treatment for a friend

Telling a friend you like their new coat when you don't

Pretending to be disabled and claiming benefits while working

Drinking three pints of beer and driving home

Giving a space on a lifeboat to a doctor rather than a mother and child

Stealing £5 a day from the shop you work at